To English Capitalists.

Owing to our having already disposed of 9½ leagues of the 10 leagues of camp in Entre Rios, referred to in former advertisement, headed 'Important Notice,' we did not renew it until we had received instructions from the owner. He now informs us that he will sell another 10 leagues in lots to suit purchasers, preferring these to be English, Irish, Scotch, or American. The whole estancia has an area of fifty square leagues. The quality of the camp is excellent, with abundance of water. As the lots sold are not yet selected, we would advise parties interested to use all despatch in applying: of the land sold, 6½ leagues have been purchased by Englishmen.

FESTIVAL AT MERCEDES.

The town of Mercedes, recently dignified with the title of City, has been for the last few days the scene of much festivity, Sunday (24th inst.) being the titular feast of the place (Our Lady of Mercy). On Saturday evening a large party proceeded by train from the Parque to assist at the 'funcion,' our company including Rev. Canon Fuentes, Dr. Montesdeoca senr., Sr. Otamendi, Drs. Cardenas, Rayces, Paz; Messrs. Estrada ('Nacion Argentina') and several other gentlemen. The evening was very fine, and the aspect of the suburbs delightful, the peach-mounts and fruit-gardens of Almagro, Flores, and San Martin being in full blossom. At Moron we passed a luggage-train laden with sheepskins and other produce, and noticed much activity at this thriving place. Merlo looked rather dull, but the graceful little Gothic church shewed to advantage. At Moreno we passed the down train, full of passengers (mostly Irish), coming from Mercedes to town. It was nearly sunset when we reached General Rodriguez where a new station has been formed, and here several brick-houses have sprung up suddenly. Careering at full steam across the Pampa is very pleasant travelling, and all around are flocks of sheep returning to the fold. The station at Villa Luxan is a fine edifice probably unsurpassed in these countries, and a refreshment-room offers its blandishments to the wayfarer, for the train rests 10 minutes. From Luxan to Mercedes is a long ride, and as night had already closed in we passed the time conversing of all things imaginable or counting the lights on the horizon which indicate the dwellings of the industrious sheep-farmers. At 7.20 p.m. we reached Mercedes, where several hack-coaches were in waiting, but owing to an unlucky delay for luggage the special correspondents of the 'Nacion' and 'Standard' were left behind to proceed afoot to the town. The porter did not know the way and we got lost twice in a 'pantano,' forcing us to retrace our steps in the dark. On reaching the Hotel we found all the beds engaged, and every inn-keeper had the same story. Luckily the Cura, Schoolmaster, and Justice of Peace had prepared hospitalities, and all the visitors were soon quartered very snugly. The Cura had a sumptuous supper laid out at which 20 of us sat down, with keen apetites.

Vespers were already over, and rockets and music were kept up in the Plaza. Being invited to attend the performances at the theatre, we proceeded thither after supper, and found the place crowded. The edifice is only a long low wooden shed: the company from the Victoria theatre played with much ability and great applause the drama La Cocoha and a petit-piece called Los Tres. The attendance of ladies was thin, and the orchestra tolerable. The 'Nacion' and 'Standard' had the fortune to be quartered for the night at the Colegio Municipal, and the master, Don Maldonado [a very gentlemanly and hospitable man) treated us with every kindness.

Rising at 6 next morning, Sunday, we resolved to explore the town, and Sor. Cardoso, Juez de Paz, had the goodness to lend us his coach. We started in a N.W. direction, and after a couple of miles reached the Mill, situate on the River of Luxan. This is a fine establishment, belonging to a French-man named Lavergne: it was built in [illegible] by steam as well as water-power able to grind as much as 300 fanegas in 2½ hours. The water-wheel is 30-horse, the steam-engine 15-horse power; the latter when working requires 30 quintal of coal daily. A splendid view of the surrounding country is obtained from the roof: the mill is 3 stories high. Hard by is a handsome bridge, crossing which we see on the left of the modern estancia-house of Mr. William Woodgate, distant only a mile (in a straight line) from Mercedes. Being anxious to see all we could, we proceeded to this estancia, and Don Guillermo received us with a hearty welcome. We were just in time for breakfast, after which we took a survey of the place. The house is a Swiss cottage, with pointed door-ways and stone mouldings: a spacious verandah supported by iron pillars runs round the front, and the 'mirador' serves also as a landmark. Mr. W. has a well-stocked library, and lives in the ease of a gentleman farmer at home: his hospitality is ample, keeping twenty beds for visitors, and a cellar and excellent cook. The servants' house is a two-story building, and the 'puestas' are neat brick cabins. It would require more than our space to give an idea of the splendid ram-breeding establishment at Bella Vista, which is valued at two millions, more, and boasts Negrettis, Rambouillets, etc., some of which are worth ten, twenty, and even thirty thousand dollars. The sheds are models of comfort and cleanliness, and Mr. Woodgate informed us these prize animals consumed last year over 40 tons of alfalfa hay. But to return to Mercedes. When we reached the town the 'funcion' had already begun. High Mass was sung with the usual solemnity by Canon Fuentes, Padre Copello, and the sub-curate. The congregation was too large for the church, and we noticed many Irish friends from even distant partidos. The Justice of Peace, the Criminal Judge, the Provincial Minister (Dr. Cardenas), and other dignitaries, besides a number of clergymen, assisted. An appropriate and eloquent sermon was delivered by Canon Flores. The church was tastefully lighted and decorated, and the amateur band played in the portico.

The ceremonies being very long, we went to take a stroll; the town is neat but straggling, and seems to have improved of late, being now connected by rail with town, and boasting a Branch-Bank. We called on the manager, Don Diego Arana, but he was at church. The new railway station repays a visit, and almost excites wonder at the grandeur of its dimensions, for it is really colossal in comparison with the present town.

At 5 p.m. grand vespers were sung by Canon Flores, after which fireworks were let off, and a triumphal arch erected in the Plaza for the game of 'sortija,' to be played next day. The worty Justice of Peace had sent us invitations to a dinner at the Cura's, and here we found a sumptuous table laid for 30 covers, the guests being principally the authorities and visitors already named. The 'cuisine' and wines were worthy of Buenos Ayres, and the banquet passed off very pleasantly.

At 9 p.m. the Garcia-Delgado Company gave a second representation at the theatre, which was crowded as before. The spacious saloons of the Club were thrown open at 11 p.m. to receive the beauty and fashion of the neighbourhood; ascending a winding staircase we came upon the brass band located on the lobby, from which in opposite directions branched off the ladies' room and supper-room. The ball-room neatly carpetted and furnished, with two national flags draped at the top, presented a gay appearance: about 50 ladies and 100 gentlemen, all dressed with much taste, filled the place, and dancing was vigorously kept up for a couple of hours. Refreshments were served in the supper-room. But it was soon evident the ladies were tired out by the long functions at church, plaza, theatre, and ball, and at 3 a.m. the gay assembly broke up.

On returning from the ball, we sat down and wrote our reports for the 'Nacion' and 'Standard' until past 5 a.m. [By some delay the letters despatched by 1st train on Monday did not reach town till yesterday.]

The fetes on Monday commenced with rockets bell-ringing &c. and the church service was performed by the Curas of Mercedes, Luxan, and Moron, the Rev. Mr. Carolan and other clergymen also assisting. The Rev. Canon Fuentes pronounced an eloquent panegyric of Ab. Louis Gonzaga. The procession was postponed till next day.

The game of 'sortija' being also put off, we hired a coach to visit the estancia of Sr. Frias, about a league from town. That gentleman not being at home, Sr. Garcia Delgado (who accompanied us) expressed a wish to visit Mr. Woodgate's establishment, and we had a narrow escape in crossing an 'arroyo.' We found some Irishmen buying rams of D. Guillermo, and again went through his 'galpones.' On returning to town Mr. W. accompanied us in his dog-cart to visit the cemetery, which contains several pretentious monuments, but looks rather neglected. We next visited the store of Messrs. Torroba, brothers ('Standard' agents), so well known to our camp-readers, and came back to the 'Escuela,' where we found a photographer taking a capital view of the front. This is the finest edifice in the town (except the station), with Grecian front of 6 Doric columns and a balustrade surmounted by 12 vases of terra-cotta. It is only recently finished at a cost of $460,000, and reflects much credit on the architect: the boys' school is on the right, the girls' on the left, each accommodating 200 children. Sr Maldonado has conducted the school with the utmost satisfaction for over seven years, and the appearance of the children on parade was orderly and respectable.

The new play of Dr. Carlos Paz (Caridad) was well performed in the evening, after which we had the pleasure of taking tea with the amiable family of the bank-manager. Sr. Arana and every one else seemed greatly pleased at the 'funcion,' which was to conclude with great 'eclat' on Tuesday A noisy serenade wakened up the town at 3 a.m., and when we left Mercedes at 7.45 a.m. preparations were going forward for the procession, 'sortija,' dinner, ball, &c. We returned to town with the Dramatic Company, highly pleased with the Mercedes festival.

OUR ESQUINA CORRESPONDENT.

Esquina, Sep. 23.

Gentlemen,

Again another quiet week has gone by. We have had much noise and bustle caused by the exultation upon the arrival of the news from Uruguayana of the misadventures that had befallen Estigarribia, who instead of rivalling one of the most remarkable exploits of antiquity, has accomplished nothing more than Sir John Falstaff and his boon companion, the dissipated Henry, would have done. We can assure you gentlemen every one here is beside himself with gladness at the disappointment of the Colonel when he found there was no hope of finding a grave among the ruins of Uruguayana or of his dying a martyr's death with his Spartan band, who in place of making desperate charges sword in hand under cover of clouds of smoke caused by the artillery of their opponents, as soon as an opportunity offered ran away to fraternally embrace their foes, leaving the leader to pocket unavenged the insults that most of your colleagues of Buenos Ayres have been accustomed for years past to heap upon the President. It was child-like to complain of the abuse given by the journals of your city. No crowned head of any of the rotten kingdoms of Europe ever thought it worthy to take notice of what the journals of the day might say of him in other countries, much less deem it a 'causa belli.' The worst adjective, denoting quality, we remember to have seen applied to the Grand Marshal, was declaring him to be an Indian, which he certainly is. His coppery color, his high cheek bones, his beardless face, all tell "the story of his birth." Paraguay never saw a ruler that was elected by the "free and spontaneous will of the people" as the Colonel alleges, nor could she boast of any laws or constitution other than the arbitrary will of a single despot. As the invaders have been foiled in Rio Grande, we hope the allies will soon take note of what is passing here. Notwithstanding the wads are in many places covered with water. The Paraguayans have passed the River Santa Lucia, their advanced parties have entered the department of Goya and are driving away the herds in a northerly direction. In these raids they still persist in moving a formidable body of men in a compact mass. They invariably take a few pieces of field artillery with them. During the last few days those that have the means to do so, which very few have, are moving their cattle south of the river Corrientes. In our vicinity we have quite a number, too many for the pasture in the present state of the camp, to maintain a large percentage of the animals so brought must of necessity be a dead loss to their owners. Caceres is not far distant from the marauders, utterly helpless to act for the want of horses; if he has in his division a single beast fit to put his own saddle upon, it is as much as he can boast of. Hornos is encamped on the north margin of the River Corrientes in the same predicament as Caceres. The allied squadron is near Goya, the Paraguayan fleet at Bella Vista and Cuevas, a land force of the invaders is in the same vicinity. The inhabitants of Goya have for the most part returned to their homes yet they are not sure it they will be permitted to remain in quiet possession of them. The Paraná is frightfully low and continues to fall. Lagraña is at Curuzu-Cuatiá. Extra exertions are being made to re-assemble the forces of Entre-Rios at a point upon the coast of the Uruguay near Concordia, banishment from the Province is the threatened punisment for those who disobey the call. The subject is already mooted of the propriety of erecting a suitable monument at Uruguayana in commemoration of the feats performed there by the invincible Spartans. Quien? Will some future Strabo "while musing there an hour alone" discover the inscription to read. "Go passenger and tell at Lacedaemon that we died here in obedience to her sacred laws."

GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION OF THE REJOICINGS.

MONTEVIDEO GONE MAD,

BALLS, DINNER.

Montevideo, Sept. 25, 1865.

My last letter alluded to our city being hushed in a state of somnolent inactivity. The uncertainty of what might be the final result of the operations of the allies before Uruguayana, the possibility of an impending invasion of this State, and the consequent prolongation of the war to an indefinite period, had hindered commercial transactions, and damped the 'morale' of the community. A feeling of languor and distrust had taken possession of many. No communications of a satisfactory nature had arrived from headquarters, and private correspondents murmured of unforeseen difficulties in the way of forcing the surrender of General Estigarribia, and complained 'sotto voce,' and between their set teeth, of discordant opinions, of wrangling and hasty recriminations in high quarters, of dismay and enervating confusion in the allied camp. Their judgment was said to be at variance, and there were influences at work in their counsels which threatened seriously the 'entente cordiale' of the allied States.

In the town no authentic intelligence could be obtained. The oracles all were silent, and people were left to ruminate on what might possibly be the upshot of this weary interval of struggle and labor.

Suddenly, and when least expected, the signal from the Cerro announced on Friday morning that a small steamer, decked out with flags, was sighted in the offing. But a short time elapsed and the news ran through town like an electric current, galvanising into new life and activity every one, no matter what his opinions or position, who came within its reach. At eleven o'clock I sallied forth from the Hotel de Paris, and was warned that there was something new by the tramp of a thousand feet, that, coming from all quarters of the town, were converging towards the Custom House. I was borne along with the current, and as we hurried down the calle Colon, each street contributed to swell the procession till, when we debouched on the calle 25 de Agosto, it was a fair hand to hand race. We had not long to wait, for soon after the booming of cannon was heard, and the fair little Lili steamed into the harbor up to the Custom House. We could see our friend, Don Hector Varela, bending over the gunwale and shouting at the top of his lungs, but the roar of voices and the rush of feet around us prevented the words he spoke reaching us. A moment later and the bearer of such glorious news leaped on shore, and was borne in triumph to the 'Fuerte,' and afterwards to the office of the 'Tribuna.' A great multitude panted and struggled in his wake. Then there was the scene of the 'Tribuna' bulletins, already printed, and the shouts of hundreds of little raggamuffins mingled with the discharge of rockets and crackers 'ad libitim.' Ale and champagne contributed to heighten the exhilerating sensations of those friends brought together on the festive occasion, and the 'tale of danger by flood and field,' comprehended in the capitulation of Uruguayana, related in the most succinct manner by Don Hector Varela, was received with the most vociferous demonstrations of interest and overflowing enthusiasm. For the fall of 'Leonidas,' the Spartan Estigarribia, is accepted among us universally as an earnest of future success in the coming campaign, and as the forerunner of the complete breakdown of General Lopez's vaunted military system, prepared and matured, as your correspondent 'Mentor' defiantly assured us, during twenty-five years.

The Custom House was closed for the day, all business was suspended, the fort battery thundered forth its never-more-welcome salute, the flags of various nations streamed out in their varied colors from balcony and 'azotea,' the Brazilian vessels in the harbor fired salutes, the flags of the triple alliance waved over all the public buildings, and floated in smoke and thunder over the Fort of San José, where the battery answered the Paracense's salute. The calle Porton was a vista of flags and presented quite a picturesque view. And there was a spontaneity in the expression of public rejoicing that left no room to doubt that the great mass of our population is disposed to support in the most decided way the new order of things. Let only the party now in power make the necessary sacrifice of all those interests of cliques and factions that are the bane of our parties generally; let them only forego the satisfying of selfish and individual views, and we may yet be blessed with peace for many years to come.

There is scarcely need to describe the festivities. The noise and agitation in town on Friday, Saturday and Sunday was most unwonted, and contrasted singularly with our previous state of quiescence. What with the pealing of bells, the shouts of hundreds of little urchins advertising their bulletins for sale, the din of coaches, the explosion of rockets, the hurrying hither and thither of enthusiastic news-seekers, the processions with bands of music through streets with flaunting banners and a shouting accompaniment, the deputations to congratulate the Government and the representatives of our Argentine and Brazilian allies, the frequent libations of frothing champagne, the subsequent speeches, the gesticulating groups, the jokes and laughter in the public streets, all jumbled as it were up together, pleased at the same time as it confused and stunned one's senses.

In the evening Sr. Carneiro gave a ball in his house, which was well attended, and dancing continued up to five o'clock in the morning. Several private dinner-parties took place, but as it was natural that your correspondent, who does not possess the ubiquitous faculty enjoyed by a certain French friend of ours of dining in more than one house on the same day, could not assist at more than one of them, I will only say that these all passed off in the most agreeable manner.

The bells were kept pealing till ten o'clock at night!

The Post office, the Club de la Libertad, and other public buildings, such for instance as the 'Junta de Administrativa,' were well lighted up and adorned with the flags of different nations. A somewhat eccentric idea was conceived and put in practice by some of our native friends. The Guild of 'Organ-Grinders' was applied to and their services were retained for the night. A procession of some fifteen organs was formed and promenaded the streets, each playing what he tho't best. The Ministers were regaled, each one in his turn, to such a caterwauling, that even the celebrated assembly of 'grimalkins' on their own peculiar 'tile' on a moonlight summer night never surpassed or came up to.

Fancy waltzes, polkas, schottisches, and cuadrilles, mazurkas, and the 'toast' of the 'Ballo in Maschera,' the 'Gran Dios,' 'Morir,' 'Si, Giovane,' and 'La Dona é Mobile,' all 'mixed up,' as Sam Weller would say, 'in one delicious gravy.'

The night, however, did not close without a slight interruption of the general harmony that had made itself noticeable throughout the day. The windows of General Diaz's house, as well as Sr. Varga's, were broken, but these shameful excesses were committed by a few roughs half tipsy from the quantity of spirits they had imbibed throughout the day. There was no attributable motive or object in this wanton attack on inoffensive parties who have taken no part in conspiring against the present Government.

With this slight exception, however, everything passed off quietly. As your correspondent wended his way homewards shortly after midnight the streets were deserted, except here and there a crouching figure of a 'guardian of the night,' or the reclining figure of some enthusiastic devotee of Bacchus.

On Saturday the Club de la Libertad presented a really beautiful spectacle. On both sides of the building the discharge of rockets, Bengal lights and crackers was kept up for a long time without intermission, while from the balconies a perfect stream of continuous fireworks was poured over the street, forming a species of arch on either side.

The receipt of the official news on Sunday morning gave new zest to the festivities, and it being a holiday, 'all the world was abroad.' The weather was fine, and a grand 'Te Deum' took place at the Matriz.

The attendance was good, but not overflowing, and, generally speaking, there was a tameness in the whole proceeding more easy to imagine than to describe. Whether the ill-feeling so imprudently fostered by certain members of the press between the clergy and the lay portion of our society, contributes to the want of effect on these politico-religious ceremonies I cannot say, but I have noticed the want on more than one occasion. The only Foreign Ministers who assisted were Messrs. Cavalcanti, Carneiro, Thompson, and Hector Varela, representing the Governments of Brazil, Buenos Ayres, and this State in your city.

The other Foreign Ministers of course could not so far infringe on their duties as representatives of neutral powers as to attend officially on such an occasion.

Last evening the Theatres Solis and San Felipe were opened to the public, and 'funciones' gratis were offered to the people, who flocked in crowds to both theatres. At eight o'clock the doors were closed, as both places were naturally filled to overflowing. The Government pay the two companies a handsome sum for their night's performance.

Dr. Castro, our Minister for Foreign Affairs, gave a small dinner party yesterday to the representatives of the triple alliance. The table was a real 'bijou' of tasteful decoration and elegance, served by the Hotel Oriental. I noticed amongst the guests Señors. Cavalcanti, Varela, Thompson, Rodriguez, Caballero, Mme. Castro and some other members of her family. It was a meet occasion for a social 'reunion,' and the guests showed themselves quite susceptible to its influence.

I regret to have to complain of the Rio de la Plata and her captain, but the way the public were treated on Friday hardly admits of an excuse. Owing to the weather being showery, the flag announcing the departure of this steamer was taken down, and we were told she would not leave till Saturday. Satisfied with this your correspondent left town for a few hours, and on returning in time for dinner, found to his surprise that the steamer had left, the reason alleged being that the weather having cleared up, the captain had resolved to leave!

I have heard several parties complain in very bitter terms of this singular proceeding on the part of those in charge of our steamboats. It is true that the majority of passengers were able to leave, being forewarned, but much of the correspondence was left behind, and I can hardly think that the agents of a steamer ought to allow her departure the same day, after having publicly announced the suspension of her voyage.

The effect of the news on business has been quite remarkable, and every one is looking forward to an improved tone in the market during the coming month. An improvement in the amount of sales and prices has already taken place, and prices are still advancing. Those who were holding back hitherto are now anxious to buy, and sales to a considerable amount have been effected since the arrival of the news of the capitulation of Uruguayana.

These last words remind me of what we owe to the bearer of the intelligence, Dn. Hector Varela, whose wonderful celerity of travelling has been justly the object of praise. Every one here is quite thankful to such an active messenger of welcome tidings, and we laugh at the prudish scruples of those who seem disposed to criticise the propriety of Dn. Hector Varela's proceeding. The Argentine Government may indeed be right in not wishing to establish a bad precedent by allowing the captain of the Buenos Ayres to escape with impunity, but as to the public finding fault, as well might General Wilson, when he aided the escape of his friend, Lavalette, from Paris in 1815, have sympathised with the English War-office in its condemnation of the officer, in place of siding with the man who had generously sacrificed himself to save his friend from an oppressive sentence that condemned him to prison.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

At the last meeting of Congress the new treaty of commerce, etc., with Bolivia, was brought up for discussion. Senator Frias refused to entertain the question until the Government of Ecuador was called on to atone for the murder of a distinguished Argentine, Dr. Viola. The House took Sr. Frias' view of the matter, and threw out the proposed treaty.

Lieutenant Fraschini, the go-ahead commander of the steamer Buenos Ayres, we hear is to be tried by court-martial for his offence in leaving Concordia without orders. It is high time that the public of Buenos Ayres should display some interest in the fate of this unfortunate officer. To shoot a man for bringing down the news of a great and glorious event for us all, is but a hollow farce, when we have our prisons overflowing with murderers and assassins of the blackest die, who, to the disgrace of the tribunals in this country, have not been, long since, executed. In England the authorities are inexorable with felons and assassins, but lenient with all other classes of prisoners; in Buenos Ayres, it seems, however, to be quite the reverse.

Minister Cardenas has come to the rescue of the alcaldes, tenientes, and capatazes; the war having taken such a favorable turn, and the Paraguayans proving to be extremely vincible, the Minister has directed a circular to all the country judges ordering them to spare all the above named rustic dignitaries, and not to enrol them until further notice.

Our evening colleague, the 'Nacional,' has made its 'debut' in Argentine type, which has a clear, good appearance, but which the editor complains costs dearer than North American letter. It is however a matter of satisfaction to think that native industry is steadily progressing. Our wax-matches factory pays well; a manufactory of brooms is also giving good returns, and now Mr. Bernheim, with his type foundry, has rendered it unnecessary to send to the States for type, since he is prepared to fill at short notice any order which may be given him.

We hear that one of our private banks offered several millions of paper dollars to the owners of the old tile-roofed house at the corner of the Plaza Victoria and Reconquista, but that the offer, although of a most extravagant nature, was declined with thanks by the owners, who alleged that as they were born in the house in question, and had lived in it for so many years, they intended to die in it also, and no money could induce them to sell it.

The 'funcion' in the Merced Church was the grandest that has taken place for many years in this city. From the ceiling in front of the altar hung the four Paraguayan flags, and in large gilt letters on cloth we read, 'Protectoral de la Patria—Rogad por Nosatros.' The Paraguayan flag which hung from the altar was the one captured at Corrientes. At eleven o'clock the ceremonies commenced, the Bishop, and Canons, and other clergymen attending. Canon Pinero preached an eloquent and impressive sermon. At two o'clock precisely the Vice-President, attended by all his Ministers, &c., entered the church, then the choir intoned the 'Te Deum' for the surrender of Uruguayana. The 5th of the line, which was drawn up, with its band of music, and the 5th Regiment of B. Ayres, were also in attendance. At the conclusion of the 'Te Deum' the church bells rang, rockets went up, the 11 Septiembre battery fired a royal salute, and crackers were fired at all sides. The parish priest, Sr. Ordoñes, deserves the greatest praise for the admirable arrangements he made for the occasion.

The time-table of the Boca Railway will be changed on and after the 1st instant. The talented manager, Mr. Simpson, consulting the public convenience, has altered the hours of the morning trains, which, we feel certain, will secure for the line increased traffic.

General Emilio Mitre, we hear, has arrived at Concordia with his contingent, which he embarked at Rosario. There was no novelty during the voyage. His men are all well equipped and in excellent order.

Our colleague, the 'Nacional,' states that on last Sunday an immense crowd followed some shipwrecked mariners, who walked down Calle Defensa in bare feet, and with heads uncovered, to Santo Domingo. It appears that on the 14th instant these poor fellows were almost lost in a Portuguese vessel, the storm having carried away the sails and rigging. They managed, however, to steer the ship, and all at that awful moment, when they expected to be lost, took a vow that if they were saved they would walk barefooted and bareheaded to the church to return thanks to Heaven. In compliance with their vows they marched in procession down Calle Defensa, to the no small astonishment of the citizens.

Yesterday, the Tevere came in early from Montevideo, bringing heavy mails. That city seems to have been turned upside down by the news of the fall of Uruguayana. Hector Varela is the great hero of the hour: our correspondent's letter gives full details.

The new steamer, built in Montevideo for La Concepcion, made a trial trip on last Sunday from the port to the Island of Flores and back. A select party of influential gentlemen were on board. The little steamer ploughed her way beautifully through the rather rough sea. At the Island many of the excursionists got out and amused themselves rambling about, whilst the Captain of the port, and Mr. James Bell, made a survey of the Lighthouse. At 3 o'clock all re-embarked, and during the trip back discussed the merits of a splendid 'dejeuner,' which the hospitable owner provided for the occasion.

We regret to inform our readers of the continued indisposition of Sr. Octaviano, the Brazilian Minister. Yesterday several of the leading Doctors of this city were called in to attend a consultation.

On monday night Estigarribia landed from the Brazilian gunboat, and was accompanied by two Brazilian officers; they walked up to the Plaza and there took a coach, and drove to Sr. Leal's house. Estigarribia states that the Paraguayan was will not prove so formidable as many think; it will all terminate suddenly, as he questions if the Paraguayan soldiers will fight. The only fighting man Mitre has to contend with is Barrios; this man is very resolute, and if his men stand by him will give the allies much trouble.

On to-morrow night there will be a grand 'funcion' at the French Theatre,—half concert, half drama. Madame Nerini, who is a captivating Scotch lady, has requested us to ask the English and Scotch residents to attend the performance as it will be a benefit night for her husband. Mrs. Nerini's maiden name was Jessy Luke. On Sunday night the Iron King experienced a severe gale on her passage down from Rosario. When off Martin Garcia on Monday morning, at the earnest solicitation of several of the passengers she anchored for four hours which was the cause of her not arriving in port until ½ past 3 p.m. This steamer will prove a great acquisition to the commercial community of Rosario. Captain Thompson, who commands her, is a great favourite, and we have no doubt will do immense business. The Iron King will arrive in Rosario at about 12 o'clock on the day following her departure from this port.

The departure of the Mersey was the great event of the day yesterday; several leading English residents went off in the Lili to take a farewell of this favorite steamer; a few, also, were instigated by a very plausible curiosity to see Estigarribia, who, however, did not go on board until very late, and was taken off in a Brazilian gig.

The stamers Libertad, Pavon, and Pampero arrived yesterday from Concordia, having left General Mitre with the Provincial contingents, in that port.

ON 'CHANGE.

	September 26.
First price of patacons	26 40
Second do.	26 35
Closing price	26 40

There was very little done on 'Change to-day, owing to the principal leading brokers having gone off in the Lili to the packet. Specie was rather heavy, the Government broker having sold about 20,000 pats. In Exchange some bills were passed this morning at 49, which is the closing rate.

To the Gentlemen Estancieros.

We beg to inform, that about the middle of next month Messrs. Roosen Hopman and Co. will receive a magnificent lot of 69 pure blood Negretti rams. They are taken from 6 of the most celebrated flocks of Germany, and some of them were exhibited and obtained prices at the last grand exhibition of Stettin.

The best recommendation we can give to the gentlemen estancieros is, that these animals are selected by the highly intelligent Mr. Alfredo Rosenthal, and the description received of them states, that amongst them are specimens of great value, possessing in the highest degree density and fineness of fleece as the pure Negretti type in the shape of the body. As soon as the ship "Ludwig" that sailed from Antwerp the 5th of August, will arrive we shall advertise the public sale for the space of 14 days.

The Bienhechora offers three various modes of Insurance to its subscribers: 1st, with the loss of capital by the death of the Insured party; 2nd, without loss of capital in said event; 3rd, with mere compound interest.

In the first form the Insured party has a right to:

1. To compound interest on the bonds purchased by the capitals received by the Company.
2. To a propertionate share of the capitals and interest of those who die in their respective sections.
3. To a proportionate share of the Capitals and Interests of forfeited subscriptions.
4. To a proportion of gains resulting from increased value of the National Bonds acquired by the inversion of funds.

In the second form the Insured claims

1. Compound Interest on the National Bonds purchased by the Association,
2. A proportionate share of the Interest due on the Capitals of those who die in the respective sections, which capitals are returned to the subscribers
3. A proportion of the interest due on forfeited shares.
4. A proportionate share of the profits arising from the increased value of the National Bonds, acquired by inversion of funds.

Finally, in the third form, gives a right to the corresponding interest produced by the Bonds purchased with their subscriptions, and the successive reinvestment of such interest, effected quarterly, when the coupons are paid up by the public treasury.

So marvellous are the benefits arising from the employment of Capitals in Public Funds, assisted by the combinations effected by "La Bienhechora," based upon the Mortality Tables of Deparcieux, and the interest produced by the 6 per cent. Consolidated Bonds, that taking for a model, the result given by other companies established precisely in the same form and basis, but with an accumulative interest much inferior to that gained by the "Bienhechora," that it is enabled to present as positive the following tables showing the gradual progression of capitals for a subscription of:
